35 years of practical experience in telephony of which 32 years have entailed management responsibilities both on a national and international level. Most projects were of a high profile and generated substantial revenues to the employer. Hands-on Operator Services expertise and that of rating mechanics and rating systems have permitted him not only to be an efficient and knowledgeable consultant to clients worldwide but also to be engaged as the Subject Matter Expert for various organisations such as BCI, Nortel, Stentor, Bellcore and Český Telecom. In the early 80s he lead a development team whose resulting products ITOPS, Reference and Rater as well as others created project management opportunities in Canada and internationally. Due to the unique character of both the products and subsequent projects, responsibilities were enhanced to include proposal development and management; sales and marketing; business development; contract negotiation and technical support.
